Board Opens Inquiry in Col. Jarvis Case

Is Charged with Disobedience of National Guard Orders

CHICAGO (UP) — A board of inquiry convened today to hear testimony in the unusual case of Col. Richard L. Jarvis, commander of the Illinois National Guard's 130th Infantry Regiment.

Jarvis is charged with "disobedience of orders" by failing to report for summer training last July 10-24 at Camp Ripley, Minn. The charge was filed by Brig. Gen. Clifford L. Hodgkin, Peoria, new commander of the 33rd Division, of which Jarvis' regiment is a part.

Hodgkin conceded that the case was a "rare" one, and that such a board of inquiry seldom is convened.

The board was convened by Maj. Gen. Leo M. Boyle, Illinois adjutant general, on orders of Gov. William C. Stratton. The board itself sets no punishment but makes a recommendation to the governor.

If the report is unfavorable Stratton could demote Jarvis or remove him from his command.

Just Failed to Report

Jarvis, a veteran of 24 years in the Guard who was decorated for valor in World War II in the European theater, allegedly asked to be excused from summer training to devote his time to a southern Illinois business venture.

Hodgkin said Jarvis, request was turned down, and that subsequently Jarvis "just failed to report."

Jarvis was one of a group of National Guard officers who opposed the merger of the 33rd and 44th Illinois Guard divisions into a new 33rd Division early this year. The group charged that the state administration was making a "political football" of the Guard.

Brig. Gen. Otto Kerner Jr., head of the five-man board of inquiry, said procedure for the inquiry is set forth under state law. Although it is not a court martial, the hearing will be conducted in similar fashion, Kerner said, with all participants in uniform.

No Announcement by Board

Kerner said both sides can present witnesses and documentary evidence. He said there is "no way of knowing" how long the hearing will take. It will depend, he said, on the number of witnesses.

Kerner said the board would make no announcement of its decisions or recommendations. That will have to come from Springfield, he said, probably through the adjutant general's office.

As president of the board, sometimes referred to as a "fitness board," Kerner said he chose to hold the hearings in Chicago "as a matter of convenience from the standpoint of transportation for all concerned." The division headquarters are at Urbana.

Kerner is artillery officer of the 33rd and formerly was assistant division commander.

Endicotts Buy Brown Bros. Building

The building on U. S. 45 occupied by the Brown Brothers International Harvester agency has been sold by V. V. and Bonnie Brown to Paul T. and Helen Endicott.

Eventually the building will be occupied by the Tom Endicott Buick Co., now situated at 420 South Granger street, Harrisburg, but the change will not be made before sometime next spring, according to the purchasers.

Meanwhile the International Harvester agency will continue in full operation as a sales and service organization, according to V. V. Brown, proprietor, who states he has long-range plans for the establishment, which will be announced as they materialize.

Child Dies While Playing in Crib

CHICAGO (UP) — Richard Russell was only one and a half years old, but he loved to watch his older brother and sister play a game they called "space cadets."

The older children would place plastic food bags over their heads and imitate the hooded "space-men" they had watched on television.

Richard got one of the bags Friday and apparently tried to play the game.

His mother found him dead in his crib. The bag had cut off the little boy's air supply, asphyxiating him.

Says Benson May Modify Extension Order

Sec'y Asks Split Between Extension Service, Farm Bureau

CHAMPAIGN (UP) — The director of the Illinois Agricultural Extension Service said today Agriculture Secretary Ezra Taft Benson's call for a split between the service and the Farm Bureau "may still be modified."

Louis B. Howard, dean of the University of Illinois College of Agriculture, said strict adherence to Benson's memo would result in "relationship complications." He urged Illinois farm and home advisers to stick to "moderation in any statements or action you take."

Benson issued a memo in Washington Wednesday saying there should be an end to tie-ups between Agriculture Department employees and private farm organizations—like the practice of having the Farm Bureau contribute to the cost of operating the extension service.

Benson said the move was aimed mostly at situations in Illinois and Iowa.

No New Problem

Howard sent a telegram to all Illinois farm advisers and home advisers today giving his views. He said the memo "does not present a new problem."

"Considerable thought already has been given to the implications such an interpretation might have on relations involving extension employees and farm and home bureaus," he said.

"The present interpretation may still be modified since the cooperative principle of extension work implies mutual agreement on operating procedures between the university and the Department of Agriculture."

"Even as it stands, Secretary Benson's interpretation does not require immediate change in our operating procedures or relationship with farm and home bureaus."

"We are informed that particular consideration will be given to specific cases such as ours in Illinois, where adherence to the spirit and letter of the memorandum would result in relationship complications. Therefore, we strongly urge moderation in any statements or action you take."

Dahl Receives Swiss Sentence For Gold Theft

GENEVA, Switzerland (UP)—Harold (Tony) Dahl, American soldier of fortune, was sentenced today to two years in a Swiss prison on charges of stealing $54,385 worth of gold bullion.

A jury of five Swiss housewives and one man found the 45-year-old native of Sidney, Ill., guilty of stealing the gold that disappeared on a Swiss air flight from Paris to Geneva Oct. 6, 1953.

The court also ordered him expelled from the country for 10 years.

Dahl was captured when flying for the Loyalists in the Spanish civil war and was sentenced to death. He was reprieved after he interceded with Gen. Francisco Franco and sent Franco her picture. The State Department later won Dahl's release.

The pilot was arrested last Dec. 5 with Etta Eppinger, a former Swiss airline hostess.

Four Members of Family Will Be Star Witnesses for Dr. Sheppard

CLEVELAND (UP) — At least four Sheppards will be star witnesses for the defense in the murder trial of Dr. Samuel H. Sheppard, his attorney said today.

Heading the list from the family of osteopathic surgeons will be Dr. Sam himself, Attorney William J. Corrigan said. The defense already has said Dr. Sam will testify five ampules of morphine were missing from the medical bag found upended in the hallway of his home.

That testimony would bolster the defense claim that Marilyn Sheppard was killed by a narcotics addict who wandered about the house looking for morphine and failed to take money and valuables.

The other Sheppard witnesses will be Dr. Sam's two older brothers, Dr. Stephen A. Sheppard, 34, and Dr. Richard N. Sheppard, 38, and Mrs. Stephen Sheppard.

Dr. Stephen and Dr. Richard have been accused by the state of helping throw a "protective wall" around Dr. Sam in the four days just after the July 4 murder of his wife.

The state is expected to rest its case late next week after testimony by its climax witness, Susan Hayes, 24, a laboratory technician with whom Dr. Sam had an affair.

The sixth week of the first-degree murder trial ended Friday in Common Pleas Court. During that week the state made several points.

Detective Robert F. Schottke testified that Dr. Sheppard told how his wife urged him to "see Susan Hayes and have a good time" while he was on a trip to California.

Schottke said Dr. Sheppard confessed he had lied previously in denying an affair with Miss Hayes and admitted living with her for a few days in the two-bedroom home of Dr. Arthur Miller in Los Angeles.

Dr. Lester T. Hoversten, at whose wedding Dr. Sam was best man, testified Dr. Sam in 1950 and 1953 had consulted with him saying he was considering a divorce. But he said the Sheppards appeared "happy and contented" just before the murder.

The Sheppard maid testified the couple had moved from a bedroom with a double bed to one with twin beds just after returning from California.

The shopping season, which traditionally begins on the day after Thanksgiving, opened Friday and will run through Christmas Eve. This year's interval will stretch over 25 days, one more than last year.

Extra policemen were on duty in most cities to cope with the crowds, swelled by school children on holiday, which poured into downtown areas for the post-Thanksgiving onrush.

Economists said cash registers should be jingling as gaily as sleigh bells during this year's shopping season because shoppers have more money than ever to spend, prices are slightly lower and the business outlook was good.

The Christmas Club, Inc., reported it dispensed $1,030,000,000 to 12,200 members last year.

The dry goods industry said it expects to do a 5 per cent larger volume of business this year than last.

It is estimated unofficially that total sales by retail stores this December will read $16,700,000,000 compared with $16,400,000,000 in 1953 and $16,900,000,000 in the record year of 1952.

But the Federal Reserve Board said department store sales, which represent about 6 to 7 per cent of all retail sales, so far are trailing last year's sales by about 2 per cent. Department stores last December grossed about $1,500,000,000.

China Warned Outrages Will Strain Patience

Blistering Note Delivered Through British Channels

WASHINGTON (UP) — Red China had stern warning today that continued "outrages" against American citizens who fall into Chinese Communist hands can strain U. S. patience to the breaking point.

Officials said this was the plain meaning of a blistering note delivered to Red China Friday demanding the release of 13 Americans imprisoned on "trumped-up" spy charges.

In a move to get world public opinion behind its demand, the United States also asked the United Nations to circulate copies of the note to the 60 member countries of the world organization.

The note, delivered to the Chinese through British channels, did not say what might happen if China persisted in its mistreatment of U. S. citizens. Its delivery came one day after President Eisenhower promised families of the 13 imprisoned Americans that "your government is using every feasible means" to obtain their freedom.

Strongly Worded Note

The note was delivered by the British to Red China's charge d'affaires in London after the Chinese Communist diplomat in Geneva snubbed an American demand for a face-to-face meeting there.

U. S. Consul General Franklin C. Gowen had planned to dress down the Chinese for unjust imprisonment of the 13 Americans if the Geneva meeting came about.

Officials said Gowen was still under orders to protest directly to the Chinese Communist representative if the Red diplomat finally agrees to the conference.

The U. S. note, one of the strongest in recent years, branded sentencing of the 11 Air Force men and two civilians a "patent violation" of the Korean armistice, "wrongful" and "grossly contrary to the substance and spirit of all recognized international standards as to the protection of prisoners of war."

The United States called on Red China "to release these unjustly detained American nationals forthwith" and reserved the right to claim compensation for damages to the U. S. citizens at a later date.

Nixon Sued for $150,000 by Heckler at Rally

SAN FRANCISCO (UP) — A shipyard worker today sought $150,000 damages in a suit filed against Vice President Richard M. Nixon.

James Heavey, 29, claimed he was "assaulted and falsely imprisoned" for heckling the vice president at a political rally. His suit was filed in San Francisco Superior Court Friday. It asked $50,000 general damages and $25,000 punitive damages on each charge.

Heavey said he was put out of pre-election political rally in San Mateo last month. He yelled, "Tell us a dog story, Dick," during the middle of Nixon's nationally broadcast speech.

The plaintiff said he was "assaulted and falsely imprisoned by certain individuals acting under the control and supervision of the defendant."

Heavey's attorney, Vasilos Choulos, said the suit had "no political implications" but was merely "the exercise of the individual's rights to go to the courts to seek redress for a wrong inflicted upon his person or character, regardless of who the wrongdoer may be."

Choulos granted that his client was not arrested, but said that he was forcibly detained while Nixon publicly scolded him. He said this constituted wrongful imprisonment.

Five persons were injured last night when their auto left a curve near Raleigh, tore down two sign boards, went through two fences and hit an embankment. All are hospitalized in the Lightner hospital. None are believed seriously injured.

Injured were James Newman, 20, Enfield, driver; William Todd, 24, Miss Rosalie Dennis, 20, and Burrell Dennis, 22, all of Enfield, and Miss Pat Hoover, East St. Louis, 18.

The car, which was traveling at a high rate of speed, was badly damaged.

U. S., Austria to Continue Pressing for Withdrawal Of All Occupation Troops

WASHINGTON (UP) — The United States and Austria will continue pressing for an Austrian peace treaty calling for withdrawal of all occupation troops despite Russia's insistence on keeping troops there.

A joint U. S.-Austrian communique released by the State Department Friday said the two governments will "continue with determination to work together for a state treaty which would provide for the withdrawal of all occupation troops from Austria at an early and fixed date."

Although Russia once agreed to end her occupation of Austria, the Soviets reversed themselves and now insist on keeping troops there or on having the right to re-enter with troops at some future date. The Russian insistence on occupation has stalled long East-West efforts to draft a treaty.

Talks With Raab

The new drive for a treaty was agreed upon in talks here between Chancellor Julius Raab of Austria, President Eisenhower and other top U. S. officials earlier this week. Raab is now on a 5,000-mile tour of the United States.

The key section of the communique on the talks was devoted to the proposed treaty. It said the "prospects for a treaty for Austria were reviewed" and the two governments agreed they would continue their efforts to achieve one.

Raab has said Austria will not accept any treaty which lets occupation forces stay in his country or gives Russia bases in Austria. There had been reports Austria might be willing to grant Russia military bases in return for removal of her occupation forces.

Friendly Relationship

Mr. Eisenhower told his news conference earlier this week that agreement on the proposed peace treaty is one instance when the Russians could prove their peaceful intentions.

The communique described the talks Mr. Eisenhower, Secretary of State John Foster Dulles and other U. S. officials had with Raab as "cordial, informative and constructive." It "re-emphasized the friendly relationship which exists between the governments of Austria and the United States."

CHAMPAIGN (UP) — Vernon L. Nickell said today that University of Illinois trustees should "personally" check the background of any candidate for U. I. president, before filling the job.

Nickell, superintendent of public instruction and a U. I. trustee, said he had no objection to further consideration of Dr. David Dodds Henry for the university's top post.

But Nickell said no matter who the trustees want to appoint, two steps should be followed:

1. A committee of trustees, plus any other trustees who wish to participate, should look into the candidate's record.

2. Deans and other top U. I. administrators should meet the candidate and get a chance to express their opinions of him.

Henry, executive vice chancellor of New York University, had been considered a top candidate here. He withdrew last week after Nickell mapped a trip to Detroit to interview faculty members at Wayne University, formerly headed by Henry.

Have Choice Monday

However, a University of Illinois faculty committee said it will recommend Henry anyway, when the trustees meet in Chicago Monday.

Nickell said trustee President Herbert B. Megran, Harvard, has sent letters to trustees telling them they have a choice Monday between asking Henry to reconsider, or starting the search for a president over again.

"I will not object to further consideration of Dr. Henry, provided they follow a procedure that will give the trustees complete reports," Nickell said.

He said the only investigations of candidates so far have been by faculty, alumni and citizens committees, not by the trustees.

"We on the board of trustees have got to know firsthand," he said. "We are the responsible group and we cannot shift that responsibility."

After investigation, Nickell said, "I might be convinced that Dr. Henry is the right man, but I believe I have a right to find out for myself."

Fire Destroys Army Depot in Korea

PUSAN, Korea (UP) — A fire destroyed 75 per cent of the U. S. Army's biggest quartermaster supply depot in Korea early today, wiping out stores of food, clothing and supplies needed by American troops in Korea.

The delegates, representing 2,058,000 4-H club members, won't get down to official business until Sunday. But they were already hard at work comparing club activities and honoring some of their most outstanding members.

Six of the youths received $300 college scholarship awards Friday for their achievements in citizenship and leadership.

They held a news conference afterwards and said they couldn't see why the principles of 4-H activities shouldn't be extended to big cities such as Chicago.

Those receiving citizenship awards were: Cephas Williamson, 16, American, Ga. He has managed his father's 200-acre beef cattle farm for the past five years, won a state 4-H prize in community relations and was still able to rebuild seven miles of fencing.

Met by Wife, Son on Release From Prison

Former Government Worker Serves 44 Months for Perjury

LEWISBURG, Pa. (UP) — Alger Hiss was released from Northeastern Federal Penitentiary today after serving 44 months for perjury in connection with congressional investigations of communism.

Hiss walked to freedom at 9 a. m. He reaffirmed his "complete innocence."

Walking arm in arm with his wife Priscilla, and their son, Anthony, 13, and flanked by his attorneys, Hiss walked with a smile into a cluster of newsmen and cameramen gathered before the red Chevrolet convertible which drove him from the U. S. penitentiary here.

"I am happy after nearly four years to be able to reassert my complete innocence to the charges made against me by Whittaker Chambers . . . and to refute the fantastic inventions of the politicians and the press which have created a myth of falsehood."

"I hope the return of the mere man will help to dispel these deceptions that have been foisted upon the American people."

Hiss hoped to vindicate my own name and relieve the harassment of my family and do something to quiet the fear and hysteria of these days."

Hiss said that the inmates of the 1,200-man federal penitentiary were "revolted by the events involving William Remington's death."

"I think the statement made by his attorney is the best recital of the facts," Hiss said.

Remington, like Hiss, had been sentenced to the prison for perjury growing out of a congressional investigation of communism. He was found severely beaten in the prison Monday. The 37-year-old former Commerce Department expert died Wednesday.

Hiss was released only an hour before Remington's funeral in Ridgewood, N. J.

Press Helicopter Overhead

The 50-year-old former State Department official walked from the opening of the wall where a new gate is under construction along a path for about 50 yards to a point where a clothes line rope barrier restrained 50 to 60 newsmen and cameramen. A press helicopter hovered noisily overhead.

Hiss's wife and their son and his attorneys, Chester Lane and Robert Benjamin, drove to the prison gates at 8:45 and walked across the frost-covered ground and entered the prison.

Hiss wore a dark suit and a gray tweed overcoat and a brown snap-brim hat. Mrs. Hiss was dressed in a purple dress with a gray coat and a dark gray hat. Their son sported a Tyrolean hat with a brush and wore a tweed topcoat.

Hiss had to walk through a wire barrier to where the new gate was being erected. The view of the prison he left is far from grim from the outside. The administration buildings have the appearance of an Italian villa.

As Hiss walked from the administration building toward the outer gate, he stopped repeatedly and waved his arm. It was not possible to see at whom he was waving.

The sun was bright but it was nippy weather with a frosty mist in the low places. The helicopter which hovered over the newsmen made it almost impossible to hear Hiss during questioning by reporters. The plane was being used to take pictures.

Cameramen were allowed within 150 yards of the gate after being given credentials at the reservation gate. As they came back out a small crowd of curious community people had gathered to watch the affair.

Thus, passed Hiss into the " ordeal of daily living."

In 1953 Hiss appeared in Washington as a lawyer for the Agricultural Adjustment Administration. Rising quickly, he soon became an important figure in the State Department. He accompanied President Roosevelt to the Yalta conference.

In 1948 Chambers accused Hiss of being a member of a Communist cell.

Hiss denied the charge and was indicted for perjury.

THE STORY: Greg Seaver, a young man who wants to do things on his own, leaves the relative security of working for his stepfather to chauffeur a wealthy invalid, Wade Daggett. Daggett is paralyzed and this has left his face disfigured. They have picked up Rupert Landusky, an alien illegally in the country, as they travel in Daggett's car and trailer. Reaching no decision about what to do with Landusky, who suffered from exhaustion and near starvation
when they found him, they dine at a tavern. Rupert innocently precipitates trouble with some young hoodlums who are bothering a girl.
In retaliation the hoodlums ridicule Daggett.

XIV

Sam blundered to his feet. "Ladies and gents," he began like a sideshow barker, "for 10 cents, one dime, the tenth part of a dollar,
you can see old Push-in-the-Face,
the only man in captivity."
Greg's chair fell over with a crash and his whole weight was behind his arm as his fist smashed full against the jeering mouth.
Sam, taken by surprise, sat on the floor, dabbing at the blood that oozed from his cut lip. The waitress set down her tray, shaking too much to serve the meal.
Sam struggled to his feet and his head rocked as Greg struck again.

The third man seized Greg's arm. "Hold it, Bud. I'll get this bunch out of here. We don't want no trouble. You'd better look after the old gentleman."
Greg turned around. Daggett, seeing his savage anger, managed a faint smile.

Greg lifted him to his feet and took his good arm while Rupert followed them, carrying Daggett's walking stick as though it were a drawn sword. No one spoke or moved as they made their slow progress through the dining room and the lobby and Greg lifted Daggett into the car. When they reached the trailer camp, Daggett lay down on his bed.

Rupert looked curiously at Greg.
"I didn't know you had it in you."
Seeing Greg's expression, his brows arched expressively and he wheeled and went out of the trailer.

At last Daggett said, "Don't take it so hard, Greg. Things like that happen to the handicapped. It's a kind of instinct. It gives a weak person a feeling of power to turn on a weaker. That's all the persecution of minorities is, really.
There is no sportsmanship in nature. Kindness is a thing one learns."

Greg did not like Daggett's color and the faint blue line around his mouth; he was uneasy about leaving the old man alone, but he understood that tonight his presence would merely be an irritation. He drove as near the carnival grounds as he could, parked the car, and walked on slowly, thrusting his way through the crowd. It was not until a man ran hard into him,

Farm Census in 32 Area Counties Half Completed

The 1954 Census of Agriculture is about 50 per cent completed in the 32 counties covered by the field office at Mt. Vernon, according to Field Supervisor Linus F.
Kiefer.

Mr. Kiefer stated that he was well pleased with the cooperation
the census enumerators are receiving from farmers in this area and is confident that the total canvass will be completed at the time scheduled to finish. He pointed out that enumeration of farms is one of the larger costs of the census and that cooperation of farmers in completing questionnaires promptly will be vital factor in keeping down the final cost of the undertaking.

Quick completion of the census will aid in prompt publication of the results, Mr. Kiefer said. He urged farmers who had not already done so to complete the census questionnaire and have them ready when the enumerators call.

It is also pointed out that the census law requires farmers to supply information officially requested, but also provides that the information cannot be used for taxation, regulation or investigation by any agency.

The law carries penalties, some of them severe, for failure to comply. They include fines of up to $100 or 60 days in jail or both for conviction of refusal to answer questions, and fines of up to $500
or a year in jail or both for willful falsehood.

The 1950 farm census disclosed
a total of 195,268 farms in the state. According to Robert Krock, assistant supervisor of the Census Bureau, Chicago Regional Office,
this number is expected to decline slightly as a result of increased use of farm land for suburban real estate development and the increasing trend toward larger farms.

The thief lifted his knee and Greg threw himself to one side to avoid the blow. There were running footsteps and a girl paused beside them.

"My handbag," she panted. "He stole it. Where is it?"

She was the girl whom Greg had seen once before that day, laughing on the edge of the crowd. In his surprise at recognizing her,
he relaxed his hold and his captive squirmed away, got to his feet,
and dashed for the sheltering darkness.

Greg stood up, brushing off his trousers. "Sorry I messed that up.
Was there much money in your bag?"

Her face was drained of color.
With a mechanical gesture she brushed back the fair hair that whipped across her cheeks. "All I have in the world."

Greg whistled. Seeing her dazed expression he said, "You had better get a cop. Report it right away." When she did not move, he touched her arm. "I'll go along
if you like."

She looked at him as though she had not seen him before. "There's no reason why you should bother."
"That's okay. We had better get a move on before the guy leaves
the fair grounds."

"We won't find him," she said in a tone of quiet despair. "That's the kind of day it has been. Everything has gone wrong."

"Then it is time for your luck to change." Hearing his own voice Greg thought, if anyone said that to me under the same circumstances I'd haul off and sock him.

The girl let him lead her around the booth and back into the lighted area. It was not easy to find a policeman in the crowd but Greg succeeded at last. He was a young policeman, with red cheeks and a prominent Adam's apple, watching the men who operated the shell-game in a bemused sort of way.

Greg told him what had happened and the policeman shook his head. "One of the carnival people, probably. I don't suppose there is much chance of laying hands on him. They all stick together." He pulled out a notebook. "Can you describe him?"

"He was wearing a light gray suit and he had a green turtle-neck sweater under his jacket," Greg said.

100 Years of Illinois Agriculture

Reports made by Illinois farmers in the 1954 Census of Agriculture to be taken this fall will bring up to date the statistics now covering a century for the State's farms, according to Field Supervisor Linus F. Kiefer of the Mt. Vernon field office.

The 1954 census will yield information on number and size of farms, acreage and harvest of crops, livestock, selected facilities and equipment (television, food freezer, piped running water, tractors, trucks, etc.), selected expenditures, and other detail.

Changes in number of farms, land in farms, and value of farms as recorded in the censuses of agriculture in Illinois from 1850 through 1950 are shown below:

	Number of farms	All land in farms (acres)	Value of farms (land and buildings)

Too Much Chlorophyll Compound May Affect Animals' Offspring

Feeding large amounts of a chlorophyll compound to animals may affect their offspring, according to Drs. E. F. Reber and D. A. Williger of the College of Veterinary Medicine at the University of Illinois.

The researchers reached this conclusion after recent tests at the college in which they fed two groups of rats diets with and without chlorophyll. The rats fed chlorophyll showed no obvious effects and bore the usual number of young.

These young, however, showed several abnormalities. Their hair coats were rough and developed a light green color. The muscles also showed a green color and in many cases were weak, causing the young rats to drag their legs. Only two of the six litters lived to weaning age.

Mother rats fed chlorophyll did not provide so much milk and the growth rate of their offspring was slowed somewhat until the rats reached weaning age. After weaning, the growth rate of the two groups was about equal.

Chlorophyll used in the tests was the same kind used in some commercial products and pet foods, Dr. Reber points out. However, the level of chlorophyll in the tests was much higher than that found in pet foods. To date no toxic effects have been reported from the use of chlorophyll at the lower levels.

Meadow mice and pine mice are responsible for most of the mouse damage inflicted on fruit trees.
They girdle or debark trees during winter months. Meadow mice work near the surface of the ground and are not hard to control with poison. The pine mice, which seldom work near the surface, are harder to control.

The best time to work on the mice is after harvest when cool weather has caused them to settle down from their migrations — in late fall or early winter. Distribute poison bait systematically row
by row in the orchard in active mouse runways during a sunny forenoon. The meadow mouse uses shallow tunnels in tall grass or in the soil slightly below the surface
if there is no ground cover. Fresh droppings, freshly cut blades of grass, and a moist, warm appearance will indicate an active runway.

Strychnine oats, or fresh apple slices treated with zinc phosphide are the poison baits commonly used for controlling mice in the orchard. One quart of the zinc phosphide bait will treat from one-third to one acre of orchard, depending on the number of mice.

In managing mature forests the chief objective is to harvest the trees in such a way as to provide for reproduction by natural means.
It is better to leave well-formed sound trees of low value species in the farm woods than poor quality trees of high-value species.

In most cases the tops of harvested trees should be left in the forest to decompose and add organic matter to the soil.

Winter grazing of small grain crops will reduce the yield of grain at harvest time. However, if grazing reduces the risk of lodging,
the practice may be beneficial.

The greatest aid in putting the poultry enterprise on a business
basis is through keeping accurate records.

Acid soils should be limed at least six months before planting
a legume.

In general, crops will use any of the nitrogen fertilizers. The thing to remember is to purchase the nitrogen fertilizer that will cost the least per pound of actual nitrogen.

Sweet clover has the ability to make better use of raw rock phosphates than many other crops.
When such sweet clover is plowed
under as a green manure crop,
the phosphorus taken into the clover plant will be released to the succeeding crop.

Watch for Moisture Build-up In Stored Grain

Check your farm-stored grain for moisture build-up when cold weather hits.

John C. Campbell, extension agricultural engineer at the University of Illinois College of Agriculture, says you can look for trouble
in the top two feet of the grain.

Temperature differences in stored grain cause air currents that carry warm, moist air up where the moisture condenses on the cold
grain near the surface.

This shifting air may cause even shelled corn stored at a safe 14 percent moisture content or lower to increase enough in moisture to spoil at the top.

You can keep the moisture evenly distributed, Campbell says, by using a small ventilating fan that blows air down a perforated duct
in the center of the bin.

Or you can empty and refill the whole bin to average the location of the moist grain.

There are 252 religious denominations in the United States, with 284,592 churches and an enrollment of 88,673,005 in members.

Several of the members of the First Baptist church and the pastor, Rev. Ernest Ammon, attended the State Training Union meeting held at Metropolis Thursday and Friday.

Miss Katherine Wasson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred H. Wasson, who is employed by the Budget Plan Inc. of St. Louis and is now living in Memphis, Tenn., is assisting in a community benefit play in Memphis. A cast of 33 characters made up of college graduates, dramatics students and semi-professional actors is presenting the comedy, "Lo and Behold," in the Memphis community center known as the Little Theatre. Miss Wasson is playing the leading female role and friends of the Wassons in Memphis report that she has "stolen the show." Miss Wasson was active in dramatic plays during her junior and senior years at Murray State college. The play opened Nov. 18 for a six-night run with a goal of $5,000 for the community chest and has played to an over-flowing house each night. In response to popular demand, the play will run an extra week, ending Dec. 2.

Fred H. Wasson, local merchant, attended a meeting of southern Illinois Nutrena feed dealers in Salem Tuesday, Nov. 23.

The Carrier Mills Lions club held a ladies' night meeting and Thanksgiving dinner Monday evening. The Lions' Halloween Harvest Queen, Miss Wanda Holloway, and her maids of honor, Miss Janice Harwood, Miss Carol Felty and Miss Beverly Parsons, were special guests, as were their parents, Rev. Ernest Ammon and Dr. Harold Brown. The note made by the organization when the park site was purchased last July was burned with appropriate ceremony, after having been paid with funds raised by the Halloween celebration. Fred Wasson spoke briefly and showed color slides taken on his recent tour of South America.

Family Living
Classes Visit
Dairy, Bakery

The Family Living class, which is one of the HTHS Homemaking classes combined of both girls and boys and taught by Mrs. Louise Cochran, recently made trips to the Harrisburg Dairy and Pankey Brothers bakery as part of their classes.

On arrival at the Harrisburg Dairy, the class was met by a guide who showed them various types of machinery which homogenized and pasteurized the milk and made ice cream. They also saw the packing and the sealing of cartons being done with slabs of paraffin, and the storing of milk and ice cream. Before leaving, the students were also served refreshments by the Dairy.

When visiting Pankey Brothers' bakery, the students were shown the many processes of the bakery—the first being the mixing of dough and the rising which was completed in large tanks. They next saw the separating and aging processes followed by the steaming in order to complete the final rising. They then saw the bread being baked, sent through the wrapping machine, packed, and sent on its way to the stores. The class also saw the baking and decorating of cakes, and were also served refreshments by the bakery before leaving.

To Lead McKinley Baptist Church in Stewardship Revival

Rev. J. C. Greer

Rev. J. C. Greer of Mt. Carmel will lead the McKinley Avenue Baptist church in a one-week Stewardship Revival beginning Monday, Nov. 29, at 7 p. m. Maynard Cannon, church music director, will lead the singing.

After two and one-half years of preparation for Southern Baptist Advance in Stewardship, approximately ten thousand churches conducted schools of stewardship in the fall of 1953. In 1954 it was anticipated that many more churches would be enlisted and it is said that reports are encouraging.

Sunday school attendance has been gradually increasing at the McKinley church, and Sunday, Dec. 5, has been designated as Victory Day.

Rev. J. D. McCarty, pastor, urges every member of the church to attend these services, and others interested in Christian stewardship are invited.

Appeal by Lt. Col. Fleming Goes to Advocate General

CHICAGO UP—Lt. Col. Harry Fleming's appeal of his conviction on charges of collaborating with Communists will go to the judge advocate general's office in Washington.

The consideration of Fleming's case by a board of review was the next step following approval of his court martial conviction by the 5th Army's commanding general Friday.

Fleming's attorneys have indicated they will take the case to the U. S. Court of Military Appeals if their appeal to the Washington board of review is unsuccessful.

Fleming, of Racine, Wis., became the first Army officer ever to be tried on charges of collaborating with Communists when he went before the court martial at Ft. Sheridan, Ill., earlier this fall.

Four-Day Smog Covers Southern California Area

LOS ANGELES UP—Southern California was engulfed today in the worst combination of smoke and fog to attack the 4,000 square mile area this year.

Traffic accidents soared to astronomical heights—more than 1,500 were reported in the Los Angeles area alone—as the four-day smog blanketed the area.

Visibility dropped to zero in some sectors and robberies, burglaries and other crimes increased. The thick haze extends northward some 200 miles from the Mexican border and more than 20 miles inland.

The Weather Bureau reported the blanket was "fairly dense" throughout its entire 200 mile length.

At least three infants have died of respiratory attacks. Autopsies were performed in an effort to determine whether the smog contributed to their deaths.

Army Sgt. Martin Bugg of San Pedro whose son, Stephen, was found dead in his crib said he would take legal action against county authorities if it is determined the smog was a contributing factor to his son's death.

My name is Mary... and I want you to know I'm not afraid to go to bed by myself.
I have a bright candle to light my way. I have Mommy and Daddy to care for me.
But do you really want to know why I'm not afraid?
In Sunday School, I learned about Jesus. I know he loves me and watches over me.
At night when I blow out the candle, and Mommy and Daddy are away, I am not alone. Jesus is with me. I remember how he said long ago to his disciples: "Let the little children come unto me... for to such belongs the Kingdom of Heaven."
I wonder if your children know about Jesus? Won't you take them to Sunday School next Sunday?

THE CHURCH FOR ALL... ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church: (1) For his own sake. (2) For the sake of his community and nation. (3) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

'In Time of Trouble'

Psalm 142: 46:1-3, 10, 11
GOLDEN TEXT: "God is our refuge and strength, a very present help in trouble." (Psalm 46:1)
INTRODUCTION: Every person faces trouble at some time in his experiences. "Man is born of trouble as the sparks fly upward." (Job 5:7). There is trouble and sorrow on every hand, and man realizes his need of help in these times.

In this day in which we live people are seeking help. All too often they seek in the wrong places. There are more emotional problems, mental frustration and tense situations today than at any other time in the history of our country. We are told that there is a need for many more psychiatrists than are being produced. In fact it is said that one of every ten persons needs psychological assistance.

Is there an answer? Yes! Christ is the answer. Any person who will read his Bible and seek diligently God's will, can find the answers to his troubles.

1 NO MAN ESCAPES TROUBLE (Ps. 142:1-4)
Is this not the cry from every heart? The psalmist here expresses the cry of every person's heart. Who has never come to the place when he has felt that every person had failed him? When we feel that all our friends have turned us down, then all courage is gone. "No man cares for my soul" could be said by many persons of today. Countless numbers of lost people go a whole life-time and never have anyone speak to them about their souls. Even parents in too many cases never say anything to children about their relation to God. Schools no longer emphasize the spiritual. Homes are failing at this point. Where can one turn for help?

II GOD WILL HELP (Psalm 142:5-7)
It is true that trouble comes to all people. However, the Christian has a help not known to the unsaved person. It makes no difference how low in spirits the Christian may find himself, God is always there. The Christian's life is on the solid rock of salvation which will never let him sink out of the sight of God.

This help "in time of trouble" is for this life on earth. The Christian does not have to wait until death to know of God's love and care. He is a shelter and protection to all His own through all of life.

III GOD GIVES REFUGE AND STRENGTH (Ps. 46:1-3)
"As thy days, so shall thy strength be." No day with its sorrows or troubles will ever get the best of the person who depends on God. He has promised strength for every hour of every day. Man can find in God a place to hide away from the problems of every day.

Today people turn for escape to movies, TV, drink and other means of entertainment. They have to finally return to their problem and fall in despair before it. Not so for one who turns to God with his problems and troubles.

It is wonderful to have the inward peace of mind that God alone can give. Someone will say: "Oh, this is the talk of an idealist." No, my friend, this is the talk of actual experience. Try Jesus for yourself, and you will see.

"Be still, and know that I am God." Here is the key to the whole situation. Have you tried just being still for a few minutes and thinking on God? That will bring a peace and quiet to your mind that nothing nor anyone else can bring.

The Christian goes to God in every hour of trouble, and he also goes to God when there is no trouble nor sorrow. He stays in fellowship with God at all times. Then, when the storms of life rage, the Christian rides calmly and serenely through the storm. It pays to know Christ as your Savior.
